

FIRST VOTE IS AGAINST MR. SULZER

Senators Attacked to Sit in Hearing.

D-CADYHERRICKSPEAKS

Gives Reasons For Objecting to Members.

JUDGE PARKER ANSWERS.

Sulzer's Attorneys Claim Members of Frawley Committee, Having Expressed Opinion, Are Disqualified—First Decision in Case Caused Breathless Suspense—Rules Similar to Those Governing Judiciary Bodies.

CHIEF FEATURES IN IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

High court of impeachment convened in senate chamber.

Rules of procedure in conduct of the trial adopted, being the same as those of the supreme court of New York state.

D-Cady Herrick, of counsel for Governor Sulzer, asks for the exclusion of Senators Frawley, Wagner, Ramsperger and Sanner from the court on the ground that they had prejudged the case.

Alton B. Parker, of counsel for the prosecution, objects to this action, citing law and precedent to sustain his contention.

The court unanimously votes not to consider the challenges of the four senators.

Friends of Governor Sulzer apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to release James C. Garrison from jail, where he is confined at the order of the assembly for contempt of that body.

Attorneys for Governor Sulzer confer as to the advisability of his appearing to testify in his own defense.

The assembly meets to consider the adoption of amendments to the articles of impeachment.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The first vote recorded in the impeachment trial of William Sulzer was against the governor. It came after D-Cady Herrick, counsel for Mr. Sulzer, had challenged the right of four senators—Wagner, Frawley, Sanner and Ramsperger—to sit in the hearing. The impeachment court voted unanimously not to consider these challenges, and the four senators thus will cast their vote in finally deciding the case. These senators were excused from voting when their right to participate was on trial. The fight of Mr. Sulzer's attorneys was directed to a protest against these four men.

The opening of the second day of the trial witnessed the first oratory. Following the adoption of a list of rules that will govern the proceedings, D-Cady Herrick, chief counsel for the impeached executive, began the assault on Senators Wagner, Frawley, Ramsperger and Sanner.

His argument against Senator Wagner was that he would profit by the conviction of Sulzer, because in that event he would succeed to the emoluments of the lieutenant governor's office. The other senators as members of the Frawley committee, which brought out many of the charges against Sulzer, were unqualified, he declared, because of opinions in the case they had already expressed.

Mr. Herrick read from a printed brief. He was followed by former Judge Alton B. Parker, chief counsel for the assembly managers. Judge Parker declared that from the nature of the formation of the court of impeachment no one had the right to challenge any one of its members.

Objections to Wagner and Others. Judge Herrick stated that the objection to Senator Wagner was based upon the fact that as acting lieutenant governor he is interested in the result of the trial, as in the event of the conviction of the respondent he would succeed to the "dignity, profits and emoluments of the office of lieutenant governor."

"This case in some respects is the greatest since the impeachment trial of President Johnson," said Mr. Herrick. "It has aroused the country. There can be no question that senators on the Frawley committee have formed and expressed opinions on every article of impeachment."

Judge Herrick then read the articles of impeachment as adopted by the assembly, declaring that the defense's challenge is founded on "the right to seek trial by an impartial tribunal—one that is not prejudiced in advance." Counsel cited court opinions bearing on the absolute necessity of all the judges being uncontaminated by bias. "Every member of this high court,"

he said, "should be free from even a suspicion of bias," in order that the trial of the governor might be given "such fair treatment as is accorded the meanest criminal accused of the smallest crime." Judge Herrick contended that the senatorial members of the Frawley committee not only had expressed opinions upon which the articles of impeachment had been based, but also that they had continued their investigations after the articles had been adopted.

Rules Just Adopted a Bar.

He also pointed out that the Frawley committee members were precluded from sitting because the rules just adopted, governing the conduct of the court, were the rules of the supreme court, which provided that no person could, in effect, act both as prosecutor and judge.

At the completion of his arguments he formally challenged the right of the four members to sit, that right of challenge having been reserved when the members were sworn in at the first session of the court.

As Mr. Herrick closed, Alton B. Parker rose and began to speak without notes.

No Right to Exclude, Says Parker.

"I shall contend before this high court," he argued, "that you are without authority to exclude from its membership any member. The people of the state of New York are sovereign. They said in the beginning that this court shall be composed of the court of appeals and the senate, and you are without power to say to any member, whether judge or senator:

"You shall not sit in this court."

Mr. Parker declared that the framers of the state constitution made no provision for the right of either judge, senator or counsel to challenge any member of the high court.

Following the speech of Judge Parker the first vote was taken, which was unanimously in favor of permitting the four senators to sit as qualified members of the court of impeachment.

WHAT DID IT COST?

Expense Accounts of Candidates Must Be Filed Soon.

Under the law candidates for the nomination for office, whether successful or defeated, must file expense accounts in the prothonotary's office. These accounts must be filed within fifteen days after the primaries, which will give the candidates until the first of October to attend to that duty.

The accounts must have an itemized statement of every penny spent in the campaign, where more than $50 was expended. Where the sum was less the candidate merely swears that he did not spend more than that amount.

It should be understood that every candidate, from judge down to inspector of election, must file an account to the accuracy of which he must swear.

A Delightful Dance.

A delightful dance was given last evening in the Opera House hall by Arthur R. Low and Haard Chase. Excellent music was furnished by the Hoover-Wallace orchestra.

FOREST NOTES

Two million trees will be planted on the national forests in Utah, Nevada, and Southern Idaho during 1914.

Makers of small hickory handles for hammers, chisels and the like, are now trying to use the waste from mills which make hickory spokes and pick and ax handles.

There is much waste in getting out the flawless white oak necessary for light barrel staves. The forest service is trying to get manufacturers of parquetry flooring to use some of this waste.

The U. S. consul at Aberdeen, Scotland, thinks that American manufacturers may have a chance to compete in furnishing staves for fish barrels. There has been a recent rise in the price of spruce and fir staves from Sweden and Scotland.

Four new state forests have recently been added to those in Hawaii, making 27 in all, with an aggregate of 683,101 acres.

OFFICIAL COUNT OF THE BALLOTS

Figures Make No Material Change Over Unofficial

BELL HAS A BIG PLURALITY

Leads Smith by 337, Miller by 680 and Mitchell by 852—Smith Leads Miller by 343 and Mitchell by 515—Total Vote Cast Over 10,000.

The county commissioners are tabulating votes cast at the primaries on Tuesday, and they are finding it a very tedious job. Owing to the new method of voting it will take almost a week for the return judges to tabulate the vote.

Yesterday the vote for Superior, Judge and county judge were tabulated, and the figures for the other offices are being transferred to the books.

The vote for the superior court judge was as follows:

Kephart	2082
Grim	944
Ames	645
Alcorn	574
Gallbreath	545
Wallace	444
Reilly, J. B.	313
Dougherty	283
Bacon	281
Henderson	270
Dickinson	262
Fulton	206
Kiernan	119
Reddy, P.	81
Comegys	74

County Judge Official.

The official count for county judge does not change the standing of the six candidates. The official count gives Bell the same number of votes as did the unofficial: Kelley loses 34 votes; Kinsner gains 53; Miller gains 22; Mitchell gains 11, and Smith loses 2.

The vote as returned by the judges follows:

Bell	2,657
Kelley	979
Kinsner	925
Miller	1,977
Mitchell	1,895
Smith	2,320

Bell over Smith	337
Bell over Mitchell	853
Bell over Miller	680
Smith over Miller	343
Smith over Mitchell	515

Total number of votes cast for judge, 10,654.

READING ADOPTS ALL-STEEL CARS

Order for Fifty for Passenger Service Has Been Placed

Passenger cars of all-steel construction have been adopted by the Reading Railway as its standard.

They will supersede the car with steel frames and ends and wooden sides, which was adopted by the Reading several years ago. From now on the policy of the company will be to get only all-steel passenger cars.

An order was placed Thursday with the Harland & Hollingsworth Corporation for fifty all-steel passenger cars. They will cost about $14,000 each. The steel frame wooden cars cost about $11,000 each. There are now about fifty-five all steel cars about to be delivered from the Wilmington plant, which is one of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation properties and which is managed by a son-in-law of President Baer.

These were ordered some months ago for the New York service. It is believed by the Reading management that the cars now ordered will be an improvement over any yet in service anywhere. The company will shortly contract for ten or fifteen car-bunking smoking and baggage cars of all-steel construction.

Some $700,000 will be the cost of the cars now ordered. The company will also proceed at once with construction of ten passenger and ten freight locomotives in its shops at Reading. They will cost about $100,000. An order was also given for a seagoing barge to be built at Noank, Conn.

U. B. CHURCH CONFERENCE

The second day of the Allegheny conference church of the United Brethren in Christ, opened in Greensburg Thursday with devotional services by the Rev. T. C. Hartley, of Altoona.

New System of Finance.

The general conference has adopted a new system of finance. The budgets will be made up, one for the home church and the other for the general benevolences of the church. The system was voted favorably by the conference. A minimum of $225,000 has been asked by the finance committee for benevolences this year.

In the afternoon the Rev. N. W. Burtner of Huntingdon, Pa., the Rev. W. A. Whit of Liverpool, Pa., the Rev. A. E. Carl of Pittsburgh and the Rev. Lloyd McGee of Punxsutawney were received on trial. Dr. J. F. Fulton, a perintendent, discussed the conference and the local churches.

Vote For Uniting With M. P.

The most important feature of the session of the Allegheny conference of the United Brethren in Christ was the vote on the proposition to join the United Brethren church with the Methodist Protestant church, which was instituted at a meeting last Wednesday.

A vote was taken which resulted in 138 votes in favor of the union and two in opposition to it.

The Rev. Dr. A. E. Davis, of Pittsburgh, president of the general conference of the Methodist Protestant church, made an address in favor of the union of the two churches.

WEATHER WORRIES THAW.

Attorneys Busy Preparing For Hearing on Tuesday.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 20.—An overcast sky which indicated an approaching storm and the probability that he would be denied a promised auto ride appeared to be Harry K. Thaw's chief concern.

The Mattewan fugitive and Chief Drew had planned another outing in the suburbs. Thaw felt better later when his custodian told him that if the storm kept the crowd of curious under cover he might be permitted to visit the statehouse and other public buildings in accordance with his request, which was not granted, as the sheriff thought the trip would attract a great throng and result in some unpleasant incident.

Two handbills shot and killed J. H. Thompson and Edward Smith, fatally wounded Paul Townsend, clerk in J. J. Thompson's jewelry store, and escaped with considerable cash and several diamonds at Grand Rapids, Mich.

TO DEPORT SICK CONVICT.

Wilson Commutes Sentence on Condition Man Leaves Country.

Washington, Sept. 20.—On condition that Mios Mandich, a Hungarian convicted of counterfeiting, leave the United States and never return, President Wilson has commuted the man's twelve year prison sentence to expire at once. The prisoner pleaded guilty at Cleveland June 20, 1911, to raising $10 notes to $100.

Since his incarceration he has been continuously confined to a prison hospital, and the government physicians report that he will be a permanent invalid. A warrant for his deportation is said to be ready for service immediately upon his release.

An Enemy's Courtesy.

When the crusaders under King Richard of England defeated the Saracens the sultan, seeing his troops fly, asked what was the number of the Christians who were making all this slaughter. He was told that it was only King Richard and his men and that they were all on foot.

"Then," said the sultan, "God forbid that such a noble fellow as King Richard should march on foot!" and sent him a noble charger.

The messenger took it and said:

"Sire, the sultan sends you this charger that you may not be on foot." The king was as cunning as his enemy and ordered one of his squires to mount the horse in order to try him. The squire obeyed, but the animal proved fiery, and the squire being unable to hold him in, he set off at full speed to the sultan's pavilion. The sultan expected he had got King Richard and was not a little mortified to discover his mistake.

THINK PRIEST SLEW MANY OTHER WOMEN

Fake Death Certificates Found in His Flat.

New York, Sept. 20.—Hans Schmidt, murderer of Anna Aumuller, forged death certificates to account for the deaths of many women, according to the police, who have just found in his trunk a book of blanks used by physicians in certifying deaths.

One page of the book had been removed. The police are trying to determine whether Schmidt intended to use the missing page to cover up the death of Anna Aumuller or has already put it to use in another case.

In this connection Inspector Faurot is looking for Helen Green of 201 West One Hundred and Ninth street, who has mysteriously vanished following correspondence with Schmidt.

Inspector Faurot will collate mortuary records covering the last five months in the belief that they will prove that many women who might throw light on Schmidt's criminal career were murdered by him.

The police believe the Green woman as well as others met the fate of the Aumuller girl at the hands of the priest. They say, however, that if she is alive she can throw additional light on the criminal practices of Schmidt.

BUILD MORE HOUSES.

The Chamber of Commerce has again taken up the question of the erection of more houses for workingmen in Clearfield and asks this question, "Suppose the Chamber of Commerce lands another big manufacturing plant, who will supply the new homes that would be needed?" The inquiry is pertinent. The Chamber of Commerce might as well refuse to make further endeavors to locate new industries for Clearfield as to induce a large factory to locate here, only to find no accommodation for employees.

There are real estate dealers in Clearfield, and they seem to prosper, but what is wanted and badly needed is a real estate dealer who will erect moderate priced homes for laborers, either for sale or rent. It is surprising that the opportunity for making big money in the building of houses of this kind has not been seized by local capitalists. Unless Clearfield money is expended in this direction it will not be long until outside capitalists, recognizing the opportunity that is presented to invest their money to advantage, will enter the field.

It will not be long until there will be a demand for at least one hundred new houses in Clearfield. Who will build these—local capitalists or outside capitalists? The field is open to men of money, no matter where they live, and those who not promptly are the ones who will reap the harvest.

SPANKED HIS FATHER.

An Indiana minister of the Gospel has been hailed before the grand jury of his county on the charge of assault and battery upon his own father. The charge is not denied, but extenuating circumstances are pleaded. It seems that the minister's father has been in the habit of ill-treating his own wife, the minister's mother, and one day recently the son resented the attacks of his father and spanked the old gentleman. Hence the appearance of the case in court.

Ministers are not as a rule a war like class, but it would be a poor sort of man, whether he be minister or layman, who would not protect his mother from abuse. What the outcome of the case in court will be in doubt, but if the minister were to be judged by a gathering of human beings the would not only be acquitted, but would be urged to continue the treatment until the old man had been cured of his habit of annoying and abusing his wife.

PRIMARY PAY.

Since the holding of the primary election in this state, under the new law, the question of the pay of election officers has been discussed in many counties. In Clearfield county a number of members of election board have appealed to the county commissioners as to the status of the men who serve on election boards. The impression that only newly appointed members of boards can receive the five dollars a day provided by the law. It is also contended the act applies to old members also. It may require a decision from the courts to settle this dispute. It is expected that this decision will be asked by the auditor general when he comes to pay the election bills of the various counties. It would seem no more than just that election officers, whether new or old, should receive the same amount of pay for their work, but this may not be the correct interpretation of the law, and many election officers will await with interest the outcome of the dispute.

AMUSEMENTS

Bought and Paid For

"Bought and Paid For" Wm. A. Brady's great play will appear at the New Opera House Monday. Seat sale opened this morning. The play tells the story of a young telephone operator who marries a multimillionaire. She loves him when he is sober for then he is a gentleman and the qualities which captivate her are in full evidence. But he drinks and when in his cups the only thing he can remember is his wealth and that it bought and paid for the woman. Heated with drink he demands the carriages which he purchased. The wife refuses and he breaks into her room. This is the big scene and the audience is held spellbound. Having recovered his senses the husband is willing to make apologies, but the wife is obdurate and they separate. The fourth act contains the reconciliation on terms acceptable to both. Special show train over the P. R. R. from Oseola and return after the show, stopping at all intermediate stations.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin."

An event looked forward to with much interest theatrically is the coming of Kibbler and Martin's world's greatest revival of Hamlet Beecher Stowe's lovable story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the New Opera house next Wednesday night. The play, while old, is still the most popular on the stage today and the company and production carried by the organization are the largest and most spectacular ever attempted. Seats on sale Tuesday at 9 A. M. Popular prices will prevail.

Testing an Egg.

"Really, Jane," remonstrated her mistress, "you must learn to be more careful and test the eggs before you mix them in the pudding. Now, a good way of testing is to take an egg in your hand, swing it around a few times and then place it to your ear. If it gives out a pleasant, murmuring sound you may then be quite sure that it is fresh and good."

Like a dutiful cook Jane promised in future to obey her mistress' instructions, and that same night there was hot baked custard for dinner.

At least there was to have been hot baked custard. But at the crucial moment Jane appeared upon the scene with nothing to show but a tear stained face.

"Well, Jane?" anxiously inquired her mistress.

"Please, mum," gasped the saddened servant, "there's a little something gone wrong. I was a-testin' the egg, as you told me, and a-swingin' it round when it slipped out of my hand, and blessed if it didn't biff the policeman in the eye as he was watchin' me through the window. An' please, mum," concluded the cook, breaking down utterly, "I think it was a good egg, too, for I listened, and I heard a murmurin'—oh, quite a loud murmurin'."—Tit-Bits.

BLOWS UP HIS HOME; TWO DEAD, TWO DYING

"To Die Together," Warning
Given by Maniac.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 20.—In a fit of insanity Mark Hurst, fifty years old, a stonemason, blew up his home with dynamite, killing himself and one daughter, fatally wounding two other daughters and demolishing the house.

Mrs. Hurst, who escaped injury, how, she says, she doesn't know, says her husband awoke the family and told them to gather in his bedroom. After they had all entered he closed and locked the door and said:

"We will all die together."

Then he picked up a stick of dynamite which was lying on the floor near and threw it under the bed.

There was a deafening roar, and Mrs. Hurst remembered nothing more until she came to consciousness at the home of a neighbor an hour later.

The noise of the explosion awoke the whole city. Police and firemen hastened to the scene and at once began a search of the ruins. The bodies of Hurst and his dead daughter were found in a mass of debris at the rear.

The other two daughters were in another part of the ruins. Both were unconscious, and it was some time before they were revived. Neither was able to tell anything of the occurrence.

His Thrilling Experience.

The following is an extract from a youthful autobiography:

"I am eleven years old. When I was three I had the scarlet fever. After that I had mumps, measles and whooping cough, soon a great dane jumped and bit my face and then I fell off of a ladder and broke my arm. Mother says boys have much better times now than when she was childish."—Everybody's.

Compulsory Illuminations.

The west end of London is always ablaze with lights on the evening of the king's birthday, but no living Londoner can claim to have seen a general illumination of the metropolis. In his "Recollection and Reflection" J. R. Planché writes: "The last general illumination of London was that celebrating the battle of Waterloo. Now there are more beautiful displays, but this one was really general. Not a window in the smallest court but had its candle stuck in a lump of clay, while in houses of more pretension one blazed in every pane. Mobs paraded the metropolis from Hyde park corner to Whitechapel with cries of 'Light up!' and smashed every window that did not swiftly display a dip in answer to the summons."

Charm of the Nutmeg Tree.

The nutmeg tree has all seasons for its own. Every day in the year it shows buds, blossoms and fruit in every stage of maturing. The shell of the nutmeg is like a bit of polished ebony, and the mace it exposes when it bursts is of a bright scarlet. With all these varied features upon it at the same time, the nutmeg tree is one of the most beautiful exhibitors of the old and beautiful in vegetation that the world possesses.—Browning's Mag.

Why Hollow Trees Live.

In forests and private parks one may often witness the remarkable sight of a very old tree with a trunk consisting of nothing but a hollow shell and yet bearing branches that are covered with foliage. It would seem to be impossible that the dry bark, in some cases only held together by an iron band, could go on producing leaves year after year in the manner in which it does. The explanation, however, is quite a simple one. In very young trees the sap carrying portion is in the center. It is a series of bundles of minute cellular tubes scientifically known as "vascular bundles." As the tree gets older this series of bundles forms a ring which gets bigger and bigger as the circumference of the tree increases. In course of time the center withers and decays since it is no longer needed to supply the branches with nourishment.—London Graphic

SULZER'S MAN IS REFUSED BAIL

Garrison Held in Cell on Contempt Charge.

TO STAY UNTIL JANUARY.

Many Efforts Made to Obtain Enough Votes in Assembly to Adopt Other Impeachment Charges—Sulzer Adherents Planned to Obtain Writ of Habeas Corpus For Garrison.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Governor Sulzer's personal friend and special graft investigator, James C. Garrison is in a cell of the Albany county penitentiary. He was remanded to that institution by the sergeant-at-arms of the state assembly for refusing to answer questions put to him by the speaker following arrest on a charge of contempt.

Garrison's alleged contemptuous statement was that four legislators sold their votes on the resolution impeaching Governor Sulzer. He made it several weeks ago.

Sulzer adherents planned to obtain a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Garrison. Aaron J. Levy, majority leader of the assembly, said that such action would be impossible, as the assembly had "plenary power to punish for contempt." The appellate court so held in a similar case several years ago. If the courts should hold this view Garrison might be kept in prison until next January, when a new legislature convenes. The alleged offense is unlawful, it is said.

Assembly leaders would not officially admit that the failure to pass the additional impeachment charges was due to a lack of votes, but the charges have been drawn and will be presented on the appearance of a majority. Garrison's position as a member of the executive office was said to be one of the new charges. Certain changes in the language of the original impeachment charges also have been planned because of technical objections.

SPURRING UP NAVY WARRANT OFFICERS

Daniels Wants Full Quota to Achieve Commissions.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Substantial of ambition among warrant officers of the United States navy is the object of a circular letter sent throughout the service by Secretary Daniels, who is anxious to see the non-commissioned officers aspire to commissioned rank. Under the law two warrant officers a year can be elevated to positions of ensigns, provided they pass the examinations prescribed, but very few in recent years have seized the opportunity.

The secretary is of the opinion that worthy aspirants should be encouraged and their ambition spurred. To that end he has liberalized the regulations, the chief concession being that those who fail in their first examination may try again as often as they make application and receive a real earnestness to rise in the service.

The issue of the circular to those in the naval establishment eligible for elevation in rank was inspired by the desire of Secretary Daniels to see the full quota this year sworn in as ensigns. The secretary believes such advancement will work for the good of the service and increase interest in the navy.

VANISHED WILD PIGEONS.

Once They Darkened Our Skies, but Are Never Seen Now.

Old residents of Olean—some of them not so very old, either—remember distinctly the time when flocks of wild pigeons flew over the then straggling village of Olean in such countless numbers as to almost obscure the very sky, when flock followed flock in such close succession as to partly give the impression that each was but the separated group and companion voyagers of the flock that had but just passed overhead on swiftly whirling wings. These flocks passed in one long procession for days at a time in the early spring and even for weeks. Thousands and even hundreds of thousands of them, if the reports of those days were to be taken implicitly, nested in the woods of Alton and Big Shanty, a short distance across the Pennsylvania line.

All at once these myriad flocks of pigeons ceased to come—disappeared abruptly, mysteriously, and apparently forever. Whence did they go so suddenly and so completely? No one has yet been able to answer that question. Since that time game authorities and naturalists have searched in vain for further traces of the birds not only in this vicinity, but all over North America. Large sums have been offered by magazines as well as individuals for a nest or even a single egg of the passenger pigeon.—Olean (N. Y.) Times.

Modern Witches.

Centuries have passed since "witches" were executed in England, but in very recent times they have suffered physical harm. Dr. Jessopp knew a Norfolk man who died in 1883, and in the sixties had joined with his two brothers in a night expedition to the house of an old woman. They took her out of bed, and in the presence of half a dozen other people threw her into a pond, "where she would infallibly have been drowned, but that some who were not so mad as the rest cried out that she was sinking to the bottom and must be saved." The conclusive evidence against her was that she kept a black cat and wore a black silk dress on Sundays. In 1882 there was still alive, and master in an elementary school, one who, as a young man, had scratched a "witch's" arms till the blood poured down, because she had "overlooked" him, and only so could his health be restored.—London Chronicle.

FIRST VOTE IS AGAINST MR. SULZER

Senators Attacked to Sit in Hearing.

D-CADYHERRICKSPEAKS

Gives Reasons For Objecting to Members.

JUDGE PARKER ANSWERS.

Sulzer's Attorneys Claim Members of Frawley Committee, Having Expressed Opinion, Are Disqualified—First Decision in Case Caused Breathless Suspense—Rules Similar to Those Governing Judiciary Bodies.

High court of impeachment convened in senate chamber.

Rules of procedure in conduct of the trial adopted, being the same as those of the supreme court of New York state.

D-Cady Herrick, of counsel for Governor Sulzer, asks for the exclusion of Senators Frawley, Wagner, Ramsperger and Sanner from the court on the ground that they had prejudged the case.

Alton B. Parker, of counsel for the prosecution, objects to this action, citing law and precedent to sustain his contention.

The court unanimously votes not to consider the challenges of the four senators.

Friends of Governor Sulzer apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to release James C. Garrison from jail, where he is confined at the order of the assembly for contempt of that body.

Attorneys for Governor Sulzer confer as to the advisability of his appearing to testify in his own defense.

The assembly meets to consider the adoption of amendments to the articles of impeachment.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The first vote recorded in the impeachment trial of William Sulzer was against the governor. It came after D-Cady Herrick, counsel for Mr. Sulzer, had challenged the right of four senators—Wagner, Frawley, Sanner and Ramsperger—to sit in the hearing. The impeachment court voted unanimously not to consider these challenges, and the four senators thus will cast their vote in finally deciding the case. These senators were excused from voting when their right to participate was on trial. The fight of Mr. Sulzer's attorneys was directed to a protest against these four men.

The opening of the second day of the trial witnessed the first oratory. Following the adoption of a list of rules that will govern the proceedings, D-Cady Herrick, chief counsel for the impeached executive, began the assault on Senators Wagner, Frawley, Ramsperger and Sanner.

His argument against Senator Wagner was that he would profit by the conviction of Sulzer, because in that event he would succeed to the emoluments of the lieutenant governor's office. The other senators as members of the Frawley committee, which brought on many of the charges against Sulzer, were unqualified, he declared, because of opinions in the case they had already expressed.

Mr. Herrick read from a printed brief. He was followed by former Judge Alton B. Parker, chief counsel for the assembly managers. Judge Parker declared that from the nature of the formation of the court of impeachment no one had the right to challenge any one of its members.

Objections to Wagner and Others. Judge Herrick stated that the objection to Senator Wagner was based upon the fact that as acting lieutenant governor he is interested in the result of the trial, as in the event of the conviction of the respondent he would succeed to the "dignity, profits and emoluments of the office of lieutenant governor."

"This case in some respects is the greatest since the impeachment trial of President Johnson," said Mr. Herrick. "It has aroused the country. There can be no question that senators on the Frawley committee have formed and expressed opinions on every article of impeachment."

Judge Herrick then read the articles of impeachment as adopted by the assembly, declaring that the defense's challenge is founded on "the right to seek trial by an impartial tribunal—one that is not prejudiced in advance." Counsel cited court opinions bearing on the absolute necessity of all the judges being uncontaminated by bias. "Every member of this high court,"

he said, "should be free from even a suspicion of bias," in order that the trial of the governor might be given "such fair treatment as is accorded the meanest criminal accused of the smallest crime." Judge Herrick contended that the senatorial members of the Frawley committee not only had expressed opinions upon which the articles of impeachment had been based, but also that they had continued their investigations after the articles had been adopted.

Rules Just Adopted a Bar.

He also pointed out that the Frawley committee members were precluded from sitting because the rules just adopted, governing the conduct of the court, were the rules of the supreme court, which provided that no person could, in effect, act both as prosecutor and judge.

At the completion of his arguments he formally challenged the right of the four members to sit, that right of challenge having been reserved when the members were sworn in at the first session of the court.

As Mr. Herrick closed, Alton B. Parker rose and began to speak without notes.

No Right to Exclude, Says Parker.

"I shall contend before this high court," he argued, "that you are without authority to exclude from its membership any member. The people of the state of New York are sovereign. They said in the beginning that this court shall be composed of the court of appeals and the senate, and you are without power to say to any member, whether judge or senator:

"You shall not sit in this court."

Mr. Parker declared that the framers of the state constitution made no provision for the right of either judge, senator or counsel to challenge any member of the high court.

Following the speech of Judge Parker the first vote was taken, which was unanimously in favor of permitting the four senators to sit as qualified members of the court of impeachment.

WHAT DID IT COST?

Expense Accounts of Candidates Must Be Filed Soon.

Under the law candidates for the nomination for office, whether successful or defeated, must file expense accounts in the prothonotary's office. These accounts must be filed within fifteen days after the primaries, which will give the candidates until the first of October to attend to that duty.

The accounts must have an itemized statement of every penny spent in the campaign, where more than $50 was expended. Where the sum was less the candidate merely swears that he did not spend more than that amount.

It should be understood that every candidate, from judge down to inspector of election, must file an account to the accuracy of which he must swear.

A Delightful Dance.

A delightful dance was given last evening in the Opera House hall by Arthur R. Low and Haard Chase. Excellent music was furnished by the Hoover-Wallace orchestra.

FOREST NOTES

Two million trees will be planted on the national forests in Utah, Nevada, and Southern Idaho during 1914.

Makers of small hickory handles for hammers, chisels and the like, are now trying to use the waste from mills which make hickory spokes and picks and ax handles.

There is much waste in getting out the flawless white oak necessary for light barrel staves. The forest service is trying to get manufacturers of parquetry flooring to use some of this waste.

The U. S. consul at Aberdeen, Scotland, thinks that American manufacturers may have a chance to compete in furnishing staves for fish barrels. There has been a recent rise in the price of spruce and fir staves from Sweden and Scotland.

Four new state forests have recently been added to those in Hawaii, making 27 in all, with an aggregate of 683,101 acres.

OFFICIAL COUNT OF THE BALLOTS

Figures Make No Material Change Over Unofficial

BELL HAS A BIG PLURALITY

Leads Smith by 337, Miller by 680 and Mitchell by 852—Smith Leads Miller by 343 and Mitchell by 515—Total Vote Cast Over 10,000.

The county commissioners are tabulating votes cast at the primaries on Tuesday, and they are finding it a very tedious job. Owing to the new method of voting it will take almost a week for the return judges to tabulate the vote.

Yesterday the vote for Superior, Judge and county judge were tabulated, and the figures for the other offices are being transferred to the books.

The vote for the superior court judge was as follows:

Kephart	2082
Grim	944
Ames	645
Alcorn	574
Gallbreath	545
Wallace	444
Reilly, J. B.	313
Dougherty	283
Bacon	281
Henderson	270
Dickinson	262
Fulton	206
Kiernan	119
Reddy, P.	81
Comegys	74

County Judge Official.

The official count for county judge does not change the standing of the six candidates. The official count gives Bell the same number of votes as did the unofficial: Kelley loses 34 votes; Kinsner gains 53; Miller gains 22; Mitchell gains 11, and Smith loses 2.

The vote as returned by the judges follows:

Bell	2,657
Kelley	979
Kinsner	925
Miller	1,977
Mitchell	1,895
Smith	2,320

Bell over Smith	337
Bell over Mitchell	853
Bell over Miller	680
Smith over Miller	343
Smith over Mitchell	515

Total number of votes cast for judge, 10,654.

READING ADOPTS ALL-STEEL CARS

Order for Fifty for Passenger Service Has Been Placed

Passenger cars of all-steel construction have been adopted by the Reading Railway as its standard.

They will supersede the car with steel frames and ends and wooden sides, which was adopted by the Reading several years ago. From now on the policy of the company will be to get only all-steel passenger cars.

An order was placed Thursday with the Harland & Hollingsworth Corporation for fifty all-steel passenger cars. They will cost about $14,000 each. The steel frame wooden cars cost about $11,000 each. There are now about fifty-five all steel cars about to be delivered from the Wilmington plant, which is one of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation properties and while is managed by a son-in-law of President Baer.

These were ordered some months ago for the New York service. It is believed by the Reading management that the cars now ordered will be an improvement over any yet in service anywhere. The company will shortly contract for ten or fifteen car-bunking smoking and baggage cars of all-steel construction.

Some $700,000 will be the cost of the cars now ordered. The company will also proceed at once with construction of ten passenger and ten freight locomotives in its shops at Reading. They will cost about $100,000. An order was also given for a seagoing barge to be built at Noank, Conn.

U. B. CHURCH CONFERENCE

Annual Meeting Held at Greensburg this Week

CHANGES IN THE CIRCUITS

Vote in Favor of Uniting With The Methodist Protestant church—Only One Minister Speaks in Opposition to the Proposition—Two Votes Against Union.

The second day of the Allegheny conference church of the United Brethren in Christ, opened in Greensburg Thursday with devotional services by the Rev. T. C. Hartley, of Altoona.

The Rev. Dr. C. W. Brubaker, the new secretary of the Sunday school and brotherhood department, spoke on "Sunday School Work." The Rev. J. S. Fulton, of Johnstown, was re-elected superintendent of the conference for the seventh successive year. The Rev. Dr. J. S. Kendall, of Dayton, O., secretary of stewardship, emphasized the need of training in giving.

New System of Finance.

The general conference has adopted a new system of finance. The budgets will be made up, one for the home church and the other for the general benevolences of the church. The system was voted favorably by the conference. A minimum of $225,000 has been asked by the finance committee for benevolences this year.

In the afternoon the Rev. N. W. Burtner of Huntingdon, Pa., the Rev. W. A. Whit of Liverpool, Pa., the Rev. A. E. Carl of Pittsburgh and the Rev. Lloyd McGee of Punxsutawney were received on trial. Dr. J. F. Fulton, a perintendent, discussed the conference and the local churches.

Changes on Circuits.

Fairhope charge, Somerset county, was discontinued as a circuit and was attached to the New Paris circuit; Bedford county, Bethlehem charge in Huntingdon county, was joined to the Port Matilda circuit; Shade Gap was joined to Orbisona, Huntingdon county; Cherry Corner to Waukegan charge in Clearfield county; Milton, in South Williamsport quarterly conference, to Stockdale and Allegheny charge was attached to Dunlevy charge.

The Rev. G. J. College of Williamsport, the Rev. M. M. House, of Middletown, the Rev. B. F. Bungard, Mooseneen; the Rev. G. E. Smith, Middleburg, past their first year's study course and were advanced to the second-year course.

Vote For Uniting With M. P.

The most important feature of the session of the Allegheny conference of the United Brethren in Christ was the vote on the proposition to join the United Brethren church with the Methodist Protestant church, which was instituted at a meeting last Wednesday.

A vote was taken which resulted in 138 votes in favor of the union and two in opposition to it.

The Rev. Dr. A. E. Davis, of Pittsburgh, president of the general conference of the Methodist Protestant church, made an address in favor of the union of the two churches.

WEATHER WORRIES THAW.

Attorneys Busy Preparing For Hearing on Tuesday.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 20.—An overcast sky which indicated an approaching storm and the probability that he would be denied a promised auto ride appeared to be Harry K. Thaw's chief concern.

The Mattewan fugitive and Chief Drew had planned another outing in the suburbs. Thaw felt better later when his custodian told him that if the storm kept the crowd of curious under cover he might be permitted to visit the statehouse and other public buildings in accordance with his request, which was not granted, as the sheriff thought the trip would attract a great throng and result in some unpleasant incident.

TELEGRAPHIC TICKS.

The senate confirmed Preston McGowan of Oklahoma as minister to Venezuela after a long contest.

A package containing $4,000 was stolen by two young men from a wagon within view of the driver in St. Louis.

John E. Sautter of Pittsburgh was elected commander in chief of the Sons of Veterans in session at Chattanooga.

Oscar, Albert and Arthur Hammons were charged with murdering their father to get his estate at Stockton, Mo.

Dr. Bernard Harshen, tariff expert of the senate finance committee, was nominated assistant appraiser of merchandise at New York.

Six cars of the Great Northern's Oriental Limited were buried from the track by a burning bridge and two passengers hurt near Winona, Minn.

Two handbills shot and killed J. H. Thompson and Edward Smith, fatally wounded Paul Townsend, clerk in J. J. Thompson's jewelry store, and escaped with considerable cash and several diamonds at Grand Rapids, Mich.

TO DEPORT SICK CONVICT.

Wilson Commutes Sentence on Condition Man Leaves Country.

Washington, Sept. 20.—On condition that Mios Mandich, a Hungarian convicted of counterfeiting, leave the United States and never return, President Wilson has commuted the man's twelve year prison sentence to expire at once. The prisoner pleaded guilty at Cleveland June 20, 1911, to raising $10 notes to $100.

Since his incarceration he has been continuously confined to a prison hospital, and the government physicians report that he will be a permanent invalid. A warrant for his deportation is said to be ready for service immediately upon his release.

An Enemy's Courtesy.

When the crusaders under King Richard of England defeated the Saracens the sultan, seeing his troops fly, asked what was the number of the Christians who were making all this slaughter. He was told that it was only King Richard and his men and that they were all on foot.

"Then," said the sultan, "God forbid that such a noble fellow as King Richard should march on foot!" and sent him a noble charger.

The messenger took it and said: "Sire, the sultan sends you this charger that you may not be on foot."

The king was as cunning as his enemy and ordered one of his squires to mount the horse in order to try him. The squire obeyed, but the animal proved fiery, and the squire being unable to hold him in, he set off at full speed to the sultan's pavilion. The sultan expected he had got King Richard and was not a little mortified to discover his mistake.

THINK PRIEST SLEW MANY OTHER WOMEN

Fake Death Certificates Found in His Flat.

New York, Sept. 20.—Hans Schmidt, murderer of Anna Aumuller, forged death certificates to account for the deaths of many women, according to the police, who have just found in his trunk a book of blanks used by physicians in certifying deaths.

One page of the book had been removed. The police are trying to determine whether Schmidt intended to use the missing page to cover up the death of Anna Aumuller or has already put it to use in another case.

In this connection Inspector Faurot is looking for Helen Green of 201 West One Hundred and Ninth street, who has mysteriously vanished following correspondence with Schmidt.

Inspector Faurot will collate mortuary records covering the last five months in the belief that they will prove that many women who might throw light on Schmidt's criminal career were murdered by him.

The police believe the Green woman as well as others met the fate of the Aumuller girl at the hands of the priest. They say, however, that if she is alive she can throw additional light on the criminal practices of Schmidt.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20.

Good evening! Don't forget that behind the clouds the sun is still shining.

BUILD MORE HOUSES.

The Chamber of Commerce has again taken up the question of the erection of more houses for workmen in Clearfield and asks this question, "Suppose the Chamber of Commerce lands another big manufacturing plant, who will supply the new homes that would be needed?" The inquiry is pertinent. The Chamber of Commerce might as well refuse to make further endeavors to locate new industries for Clearfield as to induce a large factory to locate here, only to find no accommodation for employees.

There are real estate dealers in Clearfield, and they seem to prosper, but what is wanted and badly needed is a real estate dealer who will erect moderate priced homes for laborers, either for sale or rent.
It is surprising that the opportunity for making big money in the building of houses of this kind has not been seized by local capitalists. Unless Clearfield money is expended in this direction it will not be long until outside capitalists, recognizing the opportunity that is presented to invest their money to advantage, will enter the field.

It will not be long until there will be a demand for at least one hundred new houses in Clearfield. Who will build these—local capitalists or outside capitalists? The field is open to men of money, no matter where they live, and those who not promptly are the ones who will reap the harvest.

SPANKED HIS FATHER.

An Indiana minister of the Gospel has been hailed before the grand jury of his county on the charge of assault and battery upon his own father. The charge is not denied, but extenuating circumstances are pleaded. It seems that the minister's father has been in the habit of ill-treating his own wife, the minister's mother, and one day recently the son resented the attacks of his father and spanked the old gentleman.
Hence the appearance of the case in court.

Ministers are not as a rule a war like class, but it would be a poor sort of man, whether he be minister or layman, who would not protect his mother from abuse. What the outcome of the case in court will be in doubt, but if the minister were to be judged by a gathering of human beings the would not only be acquitted, but would be urged to continue the treatment until the old man had been cured of his habit of annoying and abusing his wife.

PRIMARY PAY.

Since the holding of the primary election in this state, under the new law, the question of the pay of election officers has been discussed in many counties. In Clearfield county a number of members of election boards have appealed to the county commissioners as to the status of the men who serve on election boards. The impression that only newly appointed members of boards can receive the five dollars a day provided by the law. It is also contended the act applies to old members also.
It may require a decision from the courts to settle this dispute. It is expected that this decision will be asked by the auditor general when he comes to pay the election bills of the various counties. It would seem no more than just that election officers, whether new or old, should receive the same amount of pay for their work, but this may not be the correct interpretation of the law, and many election officers will await with interest the outcome of the dispute.

The state division of zoology goes to the trouble to tell the public how to rid dogs of fleas. The old fashioned way of killing the dog and drowning the fleas seemed to be the most successful of the methods.

Always the way. They find those comets just when it's so cloudy in this section that the heavenly visitors cannot be seen.

AMUSEMENTS

Bought and Paid For

"Bought and Paid For" Wm. A.
Prady's great play will appear at the New Opera House Monday. Seat sale opened this morning. The play tells the story of a young telephone operator who marries a multimillionaire. She loves him when he is sober for then he is a gentleman and the qualities which captivate her are in full evidence. But he drinks and when in his cups the only thing he can remember is his wealth and that it bought and paid for the woman.
Heated with drink he demands the carriages which he purchased. The wife refuses and he breaks into her room. This is the big scene and the audience is held spellbound. Having recovered his senses the husband is willing to make apologies, but the wife is obdurate and they separate.
The fourth act contains the reconciliation on terms acceptable to both.
Special show train over the P. R. R.
from Oseola and return after the show, stopping at all intermediate stations.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin."

An event looked forward to with much interest theatrically is the coming of Kibble and Martin's world's greatest revival of Hamlet Beecher Stowe's lovable story of "Uncle Tom Cabin" at the New Opera house next Wednesday night. The play, while old, is still the most popular on the stage today and the company and production carried by the organization are the largest and most spectacular ever attempted. Seats on sale Tuesday at 9 A. M. Popular prices will prevail.

Testing an Egg.

"Really, Jane," remonstrated her mistress, "you must learn to be more careful and test the eggs before you mix them in the pudding. Now, a good way of testing is to take an egg in your hand, swing it around a few times and then place it to your ear.
If it gives out a pleasant, murmuring sound you may then be quite sure that it is fresh and good."

Like a dutiful cook Jane promised in future to obey her mistress' instructions, and that same night there was hot baked custard for dinner.

At least there was to have been hot baked custard. But at the crucial moment Jane appeared upon the scene with nothing to show but a tear stained face.

"Well, Jane?" anxiously inquired her mistress.

"Please, mum," gasped the saddened servant, "there's a little something gone wrong. I was a-testin' the egg as you told me, and a-swingin' it round when it slipped out of my hand, and blessed if it didn't biff the policeman in the eye as he was watchin' me through the window. An' please, mum," concluded the cook, breaking down utterly, "I think it was a good egg, too, for I listened, and I heard a murmurin'—oh, quite a loud murmur-in', mum!"—Tit-Bits.

leaves.

utes. Add spices and let cool. Add

This photograph shows the casket containing the body of William Jay Gaynor as it lay in state in the town hall, Liverpool, just before beginning the voyage back to the United States. Seldom if ever has the British nation paid such honor

BLOWS UP HIS HOME; TWO DEAD, TWO DYING

"To Die Together," Warning
Given by Maniac.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 20.—In a fit of insanity Mark Hurst, fifty years old, a stonemason, blew up his home with dynamite, killing himself and one daughter, fatally wounding two other daughters and demolishing the house.

Mrs. Hurst, who escaped injury, how, she says, she doesn't know, says her husband awoke the family and told them to gather in his bedroom.
After they had all entered he closed and locked the door and said:

"We will all die together."
Then he picked up a stick of dynamite which was lying on the floor near and threw it under the bed.

There was a deafening roar, and Mrs. Hurst remembered nothing more until she came to consciousness at the home of a neighbor an hour later.

The noise of the explosion awoke the whole city. Police and firemen hastened to the scene and at once began a search of the ruins. The bodies of Hurst and his dead daughter were found in a mass of debris at the rear.

The other two daughters were in an other part of the ruins. Both were unconscious, and it was some time before they were revived. Neither was able to tell anything of the occurrence.

His Thrilling Experience.

The following is an extract from a youthful autobiography:

"I am eleven years old. When I was three I had the scarlet fever. After that I had mumps, measles and whooping cough, soon a great dane jumped and bit my face and then I fell off of a ladder and broke my arm. Mother says boys have much better times now than when she was childish."—Every-

Compulsory Illuminations.

The west end of London is always ablaze with lights on the evening of the king's birthday, but no living Londoner can claim to have seen a general illumination of the metropolis. In his "Recollection and Reflection" J. R.
Planché writes: "The last general illumination of London was that celebrating the battle of Waterloo. Now there are more beautiful displays, but this one was really general. Not a window in the smallest court but had its candle stuck in a lump of clay, while in houses of more pretension one blazed in every pane. Mobs paraded the metropolis from Hyde park corner to Whitechapel with cries of 'Light up!'
and smashed every window that did not swiftly display a dip in answer to the summons."

Charm of the Nutmeg Tree.

The nutmeg tree has all seasons for its own. Every day in the year it shows buds, blossoms and fruit in every stage of maturing. The shell of the nutmeg is like a bit of polished ebony, and the mace it exposes when it bursts is of a bright scarlet. With all these varied features upon it at the same time, the nutmeg tree is one of the most beautiful exhibitors of the old and beautiful in vegetation that the world possesses.—Browning's Mag.

SULZER'S MAN IS REFUSED BAIL

Garrison Held in Cell on Contempt Charge.

TO STAY UNTIL JANUARY.

Many Efforts Made to Obtain Enough Votes in Assembly to Adopt Other Impeachment Charges—Sulzer Adherents Planned to Obtain Writ of Habeas Corpus For Garrison.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Governor Sulzer's personal friend and special graft investigator, James C. Garrison is in a cell of the Albany county penitentiary. He was remanded to that institution by the sergeant-at-arms of the state assembly for refusing to answer questions put to him by the speaker following arrest on a charge of contempt.

Garrison's alleged contemptuous statement was that four legislators sold their votes on the resolution impeaching Governor Sulzer. He made it several weeks ago.

Sulzer adherents planned to obtain a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Garrison. Aaron J. Levy, majority leader of the assembly, said that such action would be impossible, as the assembly had "plenary power to punish for contempt." The appellate court so held in a similar case several years ago. If the courts should hold this view Garrison might be kept in prison until next January, when a new legislature convenes. The alleged offense is unlawful, it is said.

Assembly leaders would not officially admit that the failure to pass the additional impeachment charges was due to a lack of votes, but the charges have been drawn and will be presented on the appearance of a majority. Garrison's position by the governor of the functions of executive office was said to be one of the new charges. Certain changes in the language of the original impeachment charges also have been planned because of technical objections.

SPURRING UP NAVY WARRANT OFFICERS

Daniels Wants Full Quota to Achieve Commissions.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Subordination of ambition among warrant officers of the United States navy is the object of a circular letter sent throughout the service by Secretary Daniels, who is anxious to see the non-commissioned officers aspire to commissioned rank. Under the law two warrant officers a year can be elevated to positions of ensigns, provided they pass the examinations prescribed, but very few in recent years have seized the opportunity.

The secretary is of the opinion that worthy aspirants should be encouraged and their ambition spurred. To that end he has liberalized the regulations, the chief concession being that those who fail in their first examination may try again as often as they make application and receive a real earnestness to rise in the service.

The issue of the circular to those in the naval establishment eligible for elevation in rank was inspired by the desire of Secretary Daniels to see the full quota this year sworn in as ensigns. The secretary believes such advancement will work for the good of the service and increase interest in the navy.

VANISHED WILD PIGEONS.

Once They Darkened Our Skies, but Are Never Seen Now.

Old residents of Olean—some of them not so very old, either—remember distinctly the time when flocks of wild pigeons flew over the then straggling village of Olean in such countless numbers as to almost obscure the very sky, when flock followed flock in such close succession as to partly give the impression that each was but the separated group and companion voyagers of the flock that had but just passed overhead on swiftly whirling wings. These flocks passed in one long procession for days at a time in the early spring and even for weeks. Thousands and even hundreds of thousands of them, if the reports of those days were to be taken implicitly, nested in the woods of Alton and Big Shanty, a short distance across the Pennsylvania line.

All at once these myriad flocks of pigeons ceased to come—disappeared abruptly, mysteriously, and apparently forever. Whence did they go so suddenly and so completely? No one has yet been able to answer that question. Since that time game authorities and naturalists have searched in vain for further traces of the birds not only in this vicinity, but all over North America. Large sums have been offered by magazines as well as individuals for a nest or even a single egg of the passenger pigeon.—Olean (N. Y.) Times.

Modern Witches.

Centuries have passed since "witches" were executed in England, but in very recent times they have suffered physical harm. Dr. Jessopp knew a Norfolk man who died in 1883, and in the sixties had joined with his two brothers in a night expedition to the house of an old woman. They took her out of bed, and in the presence of half a dozen other people threw her into a pond, "where she would infallibly have been drowned, but that some who were not so mad as the rest cried out that she was sinking to the bottom and must be saved." The conclusive evidence against her was that she kept a black cat and wore a black silk dress on Sundays. In 1882 there was still alive, and master in an elementary school, one who, as a young man, had scratched a "witch's" arms till the blood poured down, because she had "overlooked" him, and only so could his health be restored.—London Chronicle.

A Slight Blamish.

"Yes," said Mrs. Mulligan, who was having a chat with two friends, "my husband's a wonderful man. He can mend clocks. Sure Mrs. Moriarty didn't he mend your cuckoo clock so that it keeps beautiful time now?" "That he did," Mrs. Mulligan, replied Mrs. Moriarty; "he mended it all right. It's only got one single fault now—it 'cucks' before it 'cucks'."—London Telegraph.

GAYNOR'S BODY AT HIS OLD HOME

Son Collapses After Ordeal
Lasting Ten Days.

STRAIN PROVED TOO MUCH.

Body Escorted to Brooklyn by a Hundred Mounted Policemen—Slung Over Steamer's Side in Mist and Drizzle. Mrs. Gaynor Tired, but Bears Up Well Under Ordeal.

New York, Sept. 20.—Within an hour after the time the body of William J. Gaynor was placed in a darkened room of the Gaynor town house at 20 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, Dr. J. W. Parrish, the Gaynor family physician, was hastily summoned to administer to Rufus W. Gaynor, the son of the late mayor, who had accompanied his father on the voyage that was to be his last.

The young man was in a complete state of exhaustion and collapse. Having borne up bravely under the extraordinary strain of the last ten days beginning with the hour on Wednesday, Sept. 10, when he found his father dead in his deck chair aboard the Baltic, young Gaynor's last ounce of nervous resistance sped when he saw the body of his father finally laid on a flower banked catafalque in his home. Then the great weight of responsibility that had borne down on him at the time of the mayor's death, during the transfer of the body at Liverpool and on the voyage back was lifted and the collapse came.

Absolutely quiet settled upon the street passing the house where the dead mayor lies from the minute when the front rank of the escorting troop of police cavalry turned the corner from Atlantic avenue into Eighth avenue. Police men acting under orders of Captain Bernard Hayes of the Bergen street station and stationed at the four corners of the block wherein the Gaynor house is situated turned heavy vehicles into side streets and cautioned automobilists not to sound their horns. Four men were placed on fixed post in front of the house of death. This guard will remain until the body is removed to the rotunda of the city hall. The body of the mayor was brought back to the city over which he had ruled in the mists of a gray morning.

Robbers Kill Watchman.
Chicago, Sept. 18.—Four holdup men at dawn entered the barn of Mandel Bros., shot and killed Mike Waschuk, an employee, who resisted them, cracked the office safe and escaped with more than $2,000 in cash. Three other employees were bound and left lying on the floor.

Greek King to Pileate France.
Eastbourne, England, Sept. 20.—King Constantine of Greece, who, with Queen Sophia, has been here unofficially for several days, left for Paris incognito to try to straighten out the trouble caused in France by his Berlin speech. The king and queen are scheduled for an unofficial visit to France next week.

DEATHS OF A DAY.

Horatio M. Allen of New York, who was for a long time a resident of Geneva, Switzerland died there at the age of fifty-five.

Michael Murray, for many years cashier of the Equitable Life Assurance society, died in his sixty-fourth year at Atlantic Highlands. He had been with the Equitable for forty-six years.

Thomas F. Riley, until a few days ago president of the New England Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, died suddenly at his home in Cambridge. He was fifty years old.

John E. Corwin, seventy-five years old, a retired banker, was found dead of heart disease in a chair at his home in Middletown, N. Y. He conducted a private bank in Middletown for over a quarter of a century.

REFUGEES FROM MEXICO.

Sixteen Americans Say They Were Sent Home by Their Consul.

New York, Sept. 20.—Sixteen Americans, who arrived on the steamship Sibiria from Frontera, Mexico, said they had been sent home by the United States consul at that port, acting under instructions from the department of state.

The refugees said that up to the time they left home they had suffered no losses from the Mexican rebels or from bandits.

Refuses to Leave School.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 20.—With practically everybody in town on her side excepting the mayor, the town council and two members of the school board Mrs. Carl Willett of Virginia Beach is in charge of the only school at that exclusive resort and refuses to leave, despite the order of the municipal authorities.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Price Movements Variable During Trading, Following Uncertain Opening.

New York, Sept. 20.—Price movements in the early trading were variable, and the market's tone showed uncertainty. Some issues made initial gains, but there was an absence of vigor to the buying and when a supply appeared these gains were quickly lost.

Vigorous buying was in evidence in the coal shares during the first half of the forenoon both Reading and Lehigh Valley making sharp advances with the demand based on the showing made in the Reading annual report. Reading rose 1½ points to 169½, and Lehigh Valley moved up nearly two points to 163½. The strength in these issues had a temporary influence on the tone in the rest of the list, and many other shares made fractional upturns. These advances, however, were not long retained, an increased supply appearing on which the market eased off.

London bought a small amount of Steel and helped hold this stock steady. The Rock Island issues were neglected. Canadian Pacific was heavy all through the early forenoon declining 1½ points to 22½. Governments were unchanged and other bonds irregular.

There was so much irregularity in movements late in the forenoon that no definite tone could be fixed. Stocks in which there was concentrated buying from strong interests made brisk advances, but others showed a dragging tendency. A feature was that both buying and selling orders came at times from the same sources, the position as far as operations were concerned being frequently reversed by those apparently in control of price movements. People's Gas became prominent around midday, advancing 2½ to 12½.

Reading continued the most prominent feature after noon. Buying by the trading element on the floor based on stories that the company had made amicable arrangements with the government forced its price up one point to 170½, but a free supply of stock was met on this upturn, and the price quickly reacted. The rest of the list after strength in the early part of the afternoon developed a heavy tone. The stock market closed heavy. Government bonds were unchanged and other bonds irregular.
